The total vote cast was 316.
Forty ballots thrown out for defective marking, etc.
Out of 257 men registered 194 voted, or about 75 per cent of the total.
Out of 190 women registered, 122 voted, or about 64 per cent of the total.

Beaten by a margin of one vote, Louis Dietz claims that he was deliberately robbed of election to the position of city trustee at Monday's election. He has employed the firm of MacGowan and Haas to bring legal action to secure his rights in the matter and has announced his intention to "have somebody sent to jail."

Up to the counting of the vote Monday evening the election was as quiet and good natured as any ever seen in Sierra Madre. But as the count developed a close contest and as the election board found forty ballots in all which in their judgment were illegally marked the increasing tension developed into bitterness which has seldom been equaled in the most hotly contested elections held in Sierra Madre.

Those Rejected Ballots
During the counting of the ballots the crowd which gathered at the city hall crowded around the long table where the election board was at work and watched proceedings. Among others who stood by the judges as they took the ballots from the box and opened them to read the result were Trustees Jones and Steinberger, who occasionally engaged in argument with the election officials regarding the grounds on which ballots should or should not be thrown out, sometimes handling the ballots under discussion. When the count had been completed and the election board started to indorse on the back of each rejected ballot as required by law the reason for its rejection, the arguments continued, involving a number of people. Among others Mr. Dietz sat by the side of Mr. Caskey, arguing against rejection of certain ballots which bore his name and handling them also. No record was kept by anyone of the vote on the rejected ballots, so no one knows just what bearing they would have on the election if any or all of them were counted. Partisans of Mr. Dietz claim that enough bore his name to elect him, while others claim that enough bore the name of his nearest competitor, Mr. Tarr, to prevent any advantage accruing to Mr. Dietz through a recount.

General opinion seems to favor a recount by some higher authority to determine the exact equity of the case. So the suit to be brought by Mr. Dietz is regarded with equanimity by all concerned except the election board who will have to dig up the money to defend themselves. But even they will doubtless regard that as a small thing if the matter can be cleared up. The election officers were as follows: Judges, Greer Caskey, Roland Adams; inspectors, E. N. Mead, W. S. Andrews, and clerks, W. E. Deutsch and Harvey H. Steinberger.

Charges of Irregularity
Chief grounds on which Mr. Dietz bases his claim to a recount and possible throwing over of the whole election are the alleged interference of Mr. Jones with the judges in arguing over the rejection of ballots, and violation of the secrecy of the ballot in the examination and handling of ballots by Messrs. Jones and Steinberger. "There is no doubt that I have been deliberately robbed of the election," says Mr. Dietz. "The election laws have been violated at many points and the will of the voters has been disregarded. If I had been beaten fairly I would have nothing to say but when Mr. Jones attempted to put over such raw work I determined to fight the matter out if it cost me $5,000."

View of Others
"I don't see why they want to bring action against Jones," says Trustee Steinberger. "I'm just as guilty as he is of handling those ballots and talking with the election board. For that matter, Mr. Dietz handled the ballots himself and argued against the rejection of some. I don't see how he can get anyone else in trouble on that point without involving himself just as far." Mr. Jones says he believes he acted entirely within the rights of any citizen in watching the count of ballots. It would take a wise man to tell exactly what grounds are sufficient to invalidate a ballot. The law is very specific in regard to the marking of ballots and against anything which shall constitute a distinguishing mark. It also says in counting the ballots the intent of the voter shall be considered. How far then shall we go in recognizing the intent of a voter who marks his ballot plainly in violation of the lawful method? The decision of a competent court should be welcomed by all concerned.

"The election board decided those ballots strictly according to their interpretation of the law governing the marking of the ballots," said Mr. Caskey. "Mr. Dietz was given the benefit of the doubt on some ballots which I believe will be thrown out by the court if the case is tested."

Election matters have been almost the sole topic of conversation about town this week, some arguments being heated but most of the talk being speculative and good natured. The prospect of being "sent over the road" does not appear to bother anyone seriously. Mr. Steinberger discussed with equanimity the various penitentiaries, preferring San Quentin to Folsom. But he said rather than spend any time in the county jail he would prefer to being put to work on some of the county roads. Roland Adams has been considering the possibilities of getting a real stylish cut in a striped suit.

Mr. Tarr's Position
"The nomination for this election was practically forced on me, and much against my own desire," said Mr. Tarr. "I paid no attention to the campaign and made no effort to secure votes. If I had been beaten it would not have bothered me at all. But if there is a fight on I'll not lie down on the job. If that number of voters want me for trustee I'll stay in the game till the finish."

By his attitude on various questions regarding poolrooms Trustee Tarr had incurred the enmity of the "poolroom crowd," who set out to beat him at the polls. But if he is elected it will be because they beat themselves at their own game. Instead of voting consistently for other candidates they tried to beat him by ignoring him and making a joke of their votes, writing in the names of a variety of people who were not candidates and could not by any possibility be elected. Many of these ballots were among those thrown out, little or no attention having been given to the trifling matter of marking the ballots as required by law.

Judge Hewitt's Opinion
After last night's joint meeting of the city trustees and water company directors Judge Leslie R. Hewitt discussed some of the questions involved. "The law provides that the ballots shall be counted in the presence of the spectators. That means actually before the eyes of the spectators and does not require that they be herded off at the other end of the room, and merely hearing the count. It is one of the safeguards of the purity of elections to have the spectators looking on to see that the election board puts over nothing crooked. That is done everywhere in California. There would be nothing culpable in one of the spectators reaching over and handling the ballots so long as he did not attempt to alter it, make way with it, or hinder the work of the election officers."

Congregational Church
Sunday morning the pastor will speak on, "The Cost of Being with Jesus," a theme closely in harmony with the Sunday school lesson topic for that morning. In the evening he will give some thoughts suggested by the fellowship of this week with the Congregational ministers at Avalon. Fifty ministers are there together in informal, fraternal fellowship, and the experience is unique, uplifting, inspiring.

Home of Truth
"The Mantle of Love" is the subject of the discourse to be given next Sunday at the Home of Truth, corner Auburn and Carter, at 3:30 p. m. Text, John 3:16, 17, "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son—that the world through him might be saved." Talks also will be given on the "Home of Truth Idea." Everyone welcome. Services conducted by Harriet C. Hamor. Sunday school is held at two o'clock. All children welcome.

Tie Them Up

More than once the News has commented on the necessity for a city ordinance prohibiting the leaving of any saddle or harness animal on the streets except when safely anchored to a weight or post. An illustration of the need was afforded Wednesday afternoon when a diminutive burro hitched to a dog cart tried to run away with an auto. Fritz Roess had left his Maxwell touring car standing in front of the postoffice. A little later the burro driver left his chariot standing just about the port quarter of the Maxwell. Presently the burro obeyed an impulse to move forward a few paces, locking a cart wheel with the auto wheel and jamming a dent into the auto body. Feeling resistance to his progress, the burro pulled all the harder and started the auto moving along. It took half a dozen men to stop him and it was almost necessary to carry him back bodily in order to disengage the cart from the auto.

Sanitarium Restrictions

At the last meeting of the city trustees the ordinance to restrict the district in which sanitariums may be conducted was introduced. It establishes the restricted district within a radius of one mile from the intersection of Baldwin and Central avenues. The only available ground would thus be at the extreme northwest and northeast corners of the city. The ordinance was drawn up at the request of a number of people and the trustees wish to hear from those interested before taking action upon it.

Another Ford Buyer

Andrew Olsen is the latest accession to the ranks of proud Ford owners in Sierra Madre. He has purchased one of the new roadsters from the Sierra Madre Garage and has been putting in his spare time this week learning to operate the machinery and pilot the new craft through the busy sea of traffic on the Sierra Madre streets.

CARD

Sierra Madre, Cal., April 16, 1914.
To the Citizens of Sierra Madre:
I desire to express my hearty thanks to you for your great confidence in me, evidenced in voting for me in such large numbers at the last election for a member of the board of trustees. In order to satisfy myself and many of my friends, I have employed the firm of MacGowan & Haas of Los Angeles as my attorneys to institute legal proceedings towards ascertaining the lawful intention of the voters and having said votes counted instead of being thrown out by the election board, and I will cheerfully abide by the result.

Very respectfully,
LOUIS DIETZ.

Friends of Miss Charlotte Norris and Miss Ethel Powell will be interested to know that they are now in Montreal, Canada, where they are to be the guests of Charles Norris and family and enjoy some real winter weather.

SCORE IS ONE-SIDED

First Game Under the League Schedule Is Easy Victory for Sierra Madre

Sierra Madre's first game under the Southern League schedule resulted in a score of 15 to 3 against the N. C. Japanese of Los Angeles. The first seven innings were closely fought, with the score tied at 3 to 3. Next time up two Sierra Madre men were given passes to first by the Jap pitcher, who was then bombarded for a bunch of hits which resulted in eight runs. Four were added later. In spite of the one-sided game the fans found plenty of interest in the contest. The next game will be with the Wilde & Caldwell team. The complete league schedule for the remainder of the season follows:

WOMAN'S CLUB PROGRAM

The regular afternoon meeting of the Woman's Club held Monday proved to be an event of more than ordinary interest to music lovers of this city.

The program arranged under the direction of Mrs. B. H. Kuhn, chairman of the music committee, was a delightful one, and that it was keenly appreciated was indicated throughout by the close attention and hearty applause of the audience.

The first number, "Morning—Evening," by Chaminade, with two pianos, rendered by Mrs. Frances Close Potts and Miss Lucy B. Seator, gave assurance to the audience that a great treat was in store. The promise of the first number was amply fulfilled in those following. In the Beethoven Concerto in C Major Miss Seator showed wonderful power of interpretation and skill in execution. But her delicacy of touch and brilliancy of technique appeared most strikingly in the Waltz by Arensky which followed the Andante of Chaminade. The latter was rendered with great skill and lovers of Chaminade were delighted at the satisfying interpretation given by Mrs. Potts and Miss Seator.

The "Triumphal March" of Gloria, the final number of the afternoon, formed a fitting climax.

Brilliant as was the instrumental part of the program, the vocal numbers deserve almost equal praise. Mrs. Mame Frazier Fauth, with a contralto of strength and sweetness, sang "Happy Day" by Del Riego, and "The Pine Tree" by Salter, with excellent taste, but the rare and delightful quality of her low tones were brought out with striking effect in her last solo, "My Need of Thee" by Kate Vannah, which was rendered with feeling and real power.

Mrs. B. H. Kuhn appeared as soprano with Mrs. Fauth in "See the Pale Moon" by Campana, and in "Carmena" by Wilson Lane. In both these duets the voices were well blended, but in the latter Mrs. Kuhn's voice was especially sweet and clear.

Mr. Le Roy Nelson, a baritone of much promise, rendered "Even Bravest Hearts May Swell," from Gounod's Faust, with real inspiration and power, his voice lending itself with fine effect to the impassioned melody. In response to an enthusiastic encore Mr. Nelson sang the old favorite, "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," and as his last number gave "Ah, Let Me Dream," by Taylor.

Throughout the afternoon in addition to the duets played with Miss Seator in which her part was admirably sustained, Mrs. Potts served as accompanist and her performance in that capacity deserves high commendation. The Woman's Club is to be congratulated that it has been able within the short period of a fortnight to present to the people of this city two musical programs of such marked excellence.

PRESS COM.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred White of Vermont were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gay this week.

BIG SEASON IS EXPECTED AT RESORTS

Warm days have started many people to thinking of their summer vacation, but even at that they are somewhat behind the resort people. The latter have had preparations under way for some time, looking to the entertainment of these same vacationists. All indications point to a big season at the mountain resorts this year.

Sounds as of cannonading which have been particularly noticeable during the past week have nothing to do with the war in Mexico, nor yet with the clamor of the agitators. It is only the blasting on the Mt. Wilson Toll road which is being widened sufficiently to permit the passage of two autos at any point. One morning recently a charge of 250 pounds of powder was set off at one time and made windows rattle miles away. The blasting crew are working high enough up on the trail so that the sound is not muffled in the canyons but is reflected directly from the face of the mountain. While the work is done by the Carnegie Solar Observatory to permit the transportation of large castings for the 100-inch telescope, the Mt. Wilson Hotel and Strain's camp expect to profit by the easier access which will result from them.

Rebuilding Trail
Over in the Big Santa Anita canyon there has been some heavy shooting also. Under the joint direction of the forest service and of Manager Beard of Sturtevant's Camp a crew of men have been at work repairing the damage to that portion of the trail in the bed of the canyon which was washed out by the winter floods. In places the trail will be built high enough on the west bank of the canyon to avoid flood damage in future and the new route will cut out most of the stream crossings. Cabin owners have been at work building and repairing in preparation for the summer season and the canyon colony is expected to be larger than ever.

Camps Open Early
If the warm weather has come to stay it will be necessary for the mountain camps to open earlier than usual, though the crowds are not expected to be large until the close of school when families with children can get away. Manager Beard of Sturtevant's Camp and Manager Huston of Orchard Camp in the Little Santa Anita are getting out new advertising folders, of which they distribute many thousands each season. The camps are being put in readiness for the coming of guests and unless all signs fall it will be the biggest season on record. Advance inquiries have already begun to come in and the abundance of the winter rains is expected to result in full streams and abundant green vegetation later than usual in spite of the early warm weather.

Building in Canyon
Just at present the most building activity in the city is in Sierra Madre Canyon where a score or more cottages are in course of erection, several having been completed during the winter and spring, and many others will be erected soon. While there will be no camp on so extensive a scale as in the past there will be camping facilities to accommodate a considerable number of people. A. N. Carter will have several cottages and tents for rent and is already booking guests for summer outings. It is the intention of W. S. Collins, owner of the canyon tract, to have the cafeteria operated on a lease but so far he has secured no one to take hold of it. But there will undoubtedly be some arrangement for feeding canyon residents who do not wish to bother with cooking.

The opening which was blasted in the swimming pool dam during the flood season has been closed up. An opening was left in the rock wall and a wooden flood gate has been installed. The pool is now filled with water and adds greatly to the attractiveness of that portion of the canyon.

Fixing Mt. Wilson Trail
Supervisor Manning was unable to come to Sierra Madre on Saturday to inspect the Mt. Wilson Trail and make recommendations regarding the proposed change in the trail at the Quarter-way. He is expected to come tomorrow, however, and it seems likely that the county will undertake to build the cut-off of 200 yards or more which will avoid the two crossings of the stream and serve to protect the Sierra Madre water supply from much pollution. In the meantime he has sent out Road Supervisor Adams with a gang of men to put the rest of the trail in good condition. The places which were damaged by winter storm water and have had only temporary repairs are being put into such good condition that one could push a baby carriage up he trail—if he wished to do so.

Board of Trade Meeting
On account of the election last Monday it was found necessary to adjourn the meeting of the Board of Trade for one week. Consequently the April meeting will be held next Monday evening at eight o'clock in the city hall. A full attendance is desired.

Operetta This Evening

"Flowerland," the operetta given by the public school children at the flower festival, will be repeated this evening in the Woman's Club House. The operetta was so thoroughly enjoyed by those who heard it and so many were prevented from hearing it by the crowded quarters or by duties which kept them elsewhere about the festival
that there was a demand for another opportunity to enjoy it. The work of the children in the operetta was most enjoyable and indicated a great amount of work on the part of their instructors, Misses Gardner and Carson, who had it in charge.
